13. Effect in certain successions, transfers, etc.

Where a person succeeds to any business which until that time was carried on by another person, and any capital asset which, immediately before the succession was in use for the purposes of the business without being sold is, immediately after such succession, in use for the purposes of the business, such capital asset shall, for the purposes of this Schedule, be treated as if it had been sold at the date of the succession to the person or persons carrying on the business immediately thereafter and as if the net proceeds of the sale had been the written-down value of the capital asset.

14. Special provisions as to certain sales

- (1) Where, either before or after the commencement of this Act, a person has acquired any capital asset in respect of which a deduction has been lawfully allowed or is allowable under this Act or any previous Act or Regulations he shall not be entitled to any greater deduction under this Schedule than that which would have been allowed to the person from whom the asset was acquired if that person had retained it:

Provided that this sub-paragraph shall not apply where the Commissioner is of the opinion that the circumstances are such that a deduction based on the actual consideration given should be allowed.

- (2) Where a company not being incorporated in the Solomon Islands, transfers assets to a company incorporated in the Solomon Islands, the Commissioner may on the application of both such companies, deem that such assets have been sold at the written-down value ascertained in accordance with this Schedule in those circumstances where the buyer is a company over whom the seller has control, or the seller is a company over whom the buyer has control or where the buyer and seller are both under the control of some other person.

15. Private use

Where any capital asset owned by a person is during any year used by him for the purposes of a business carried on by him and also used by him for other purposes, then in determining the amount of any wear and tear deduction, initial deduction, or any balancing deduction or balancing charge, or the written-down value of such machinery for any year, regard shall be had to all the relevant circumstances of the case and in particular to the extent of the use for such other purposes and the Commissioner shall make such adjustments as he may determine to be just and reasonable.

16. Application to employments

This Part shall, with any necessary adaptations, apply in relation to any employment as it applies in relation to a business.

- (1) Any reference in this Schedule to the sale of any asset, of whatsoever nature, includes a reference to the sale of that asset together with any other assets; and, where an asset is sold together with other assets, so much of the net proceeds of the sale of the whole of the assets as the Commissioner may determine to be just and reasonable as properly attributable to the first-mentioned asset shall, for the purposes of this Schedule, be deemed to be the net proceeds of the sale of the first-mentioned asset, and reference to expenditure incurred on the provision or the purchase of assets shall be construed accordingly.
- (2) For the purposes of this paragraph all the assets which are sold in pursuance of one bargain shall be deemed to be sold together, notwithstanding that separate prices are, or purport to be, agreed for separate assets or that there are, or purport to be, separate sales of separate assets.

18. Interpretation of certain references to expenditure, etc.

- (1) Unless the context otherwise requires, references in this Schedule to capital expenditure and capital sums in relation to the person incurring such expenditure, or paying such sums, do not include any expenditure or sum which is deductible otherwise than under this Schedule for the purpose of ascertaining his total income.
- (2) Any reference in this Schedule to the date on which expenditure is incurred shall be construed as a reference to the date when the sum in question becomes payable.

19. Subsidies

Expenditure shall not be regarded for any of the purposes of this Schedule as having been incurred by any person in so far as it has been, or is to be, met directly or indirectly by any government or local authority, or by any person, whether in Solomon Islands or elsewhere, other than the first-mentioned person.

20. Prevention of double allowances

If a deduction is made under any Part in respect of any asset in computing the gains or profits of any person for any year then, to the extent to which such a deduction has been made, no further deduction shall be made under that Part or any other Part or under any other provision of this Act in respect of that asset in ascertaining the total income of that person for the same or any previous or subsequent year.

The 1996 Consolidation renamed the First Schedule as the Third Schedule and therefore the substitution fails. However it is restored by the amendments to the 1996 Act contained in the Legislation Amendment, Repeal and Validation Act 2023]

*[Note: the two Amendment Acts of 1996 and the Amendment Act of 1998 when listing sections to be amended, made reference to sections and Schedules in the version of the Income Tax Act (Cap. 61) which predated the 1996 Consolidated version. The 1996 Consolidation became the official version of the legislation on 1 March 1996, and had changed many of the section and Schedule numbers. Therefore, not all amendments were valid. From the Income Tax (Amendment) Act 1999 onwards, amendments were made to the Income Tax Act (Cap. 123) as if the amendments made by these 3 previous amending Acts had referred to the correct sections, but without providing legislatively for the corrections. The erroneous section references contained in the two Acts of 1996 and the Act of 1998 have been corrected in Schedules 2, 3 and 4 of the Legislation Amendment, Repeal and Validation Act 2023 and took effect from the date of commencement of that Act on 5 February 2024, and are fully incorporated in this version of the Income Tax Act 2024]
